THE 2006 ANNUAL
CÉSAR E. CHÁVEZ RESEARCH-PRACTICE FORUM
San Francisco State University

Our Lives Do Matter

The Over-Representation of Gay Men of Color in the HIV/AIDS Epidemic

A one-day gathering designed to promote dialogue and collaboration between service providers, community members and activists, and SFSU faculty concerned with this vital issue of social justice and the health and well-being of gay men of color in the U.S.

This invitational forum, free of charge, is co-sponsored by SFSU's César E. Chávez Institute the Institute for Gay Men's Health.

Invitations will be distributed in early 2006. Further information is available at:
